In the New Year, our hearts and thoughts turn towards personal improvement: How can I look healthier? What can I do to look younger? How can I fix the bulges I've been carrying around for years? When did gravity take such strong hold of my body?

At Revalla Plastic Surgery and Medical Aesthetics, Dr. Lisa Hunsicker can help you address your most persistent New Year's resolutions. She believes listening to what patients hope to accomplish is the key to helping them achieve their goals. From the time she was an undergrad, she has been interested in opening her own practice so she could be deliberate about creating an intimate and caring environment to cater to each individual's personal goals. Dr. Hunsicker has built Revalla to fulfill that vision, where patients can feel comfortable and get the results they are looking for.

Located at 7750 South Broadway, adjacent to Littleton Hospital, Dr. Hunsicker decided to pursue the specialty of plastic surgery specifically because she is committed to helping those in her care be their most confident and positive selves. She articulates Revalla's mission by saying, "I'm dedicated to providing a personalized, compassionate approach, so that I can deliver exceptional results, tailored to meet each patient's individual needs."

Revalla is a place where women and men can explore individualized solutions; whether you're interested in non-invasive facial rejuvenation options, or ready to rediscover aspects of your more youthful figure or possibly the pre-baby body that a woman can miss after having children. "Women and men come to Revalla because they are looking for natural-looking outcomes," she says. "Some people still hold on to an outdated misconception that cosmetic surgery looks overdone and obvious, when in fact, the best cosmetic surgery should only be as detectable as the patient wants it to be. Our goal is always to help our patients be self-assured in an effortless way."

Practicing medicine since 1995, she earned her medical degree from the University of Texas at Houston before moving on to her General Surgery training at the University of Colorado Denver. She then returned to Texas to complete a residency in Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston. Missing the beautiful Rocky Mountains, she returned to Colorado to open her own practice where she could engage in the art and discipline of plastic surgery.

Revalla offers all facets of breast and body contouring, with the most popular procedures being cosmetic and reconstructive surgeries. Dr. Hunsicker is incredibly detail-oriented and thorough, and takes extra time to understand what the patient is hoping to accomplish. She personally meets with every new surgical patient, so she can directly evaluate their individual physique and make suggestions on how to proceed based on their goals combined with her artistic perspective. Dr. Hunsicker most commonly performs:

- Breast augmentations, lifts, and reductions
- Breast Reconstruction, including single-surgery direct-to-implant reconstruction
- Tummy Tucks
- Vaser Liposelection
- Labiaplasty
- Upper/lower eyelid lifts.

"Most of our patients want to rediscover aspects of their body they admired before having kids, or they want to refine their bodies to reward themselves after they've successfully dropped excess weight," she explains. "Many are healthy and in great physical shape, yet would be happier if they had some additional contouring. All of our patients choose Revalla for the natural-looking surgical results, our expertise and patient-centric perspective."

Revalla also offers a wide array of less-invasive, minimal to no down-time facial-rejuvenation procedures, in the form of injectables, laser and medical aesthetics treatments.

“Many of our patients want to continue to look as young and vibrant as they feel, and thus are interested in on-going treatments and procedures to help them maintain a healthy, luminous appearance,” she says.

All of the injectables are administered directly by Dr. Hunsicker, with the goal always being to create a natural appearance. Her treatments are so popular with patients that Revalla dedicates every Monday to facial rejuvenation and medical aesthetics by offering discounted pricing this one day of the week. And as with any other service at Revalla, each new patient starts with a personalized consultation to determine their customized treatment plan and/or product regimen.

As you develop your personalized plan to reveal a “new you” this New Year, remember there are a multitude of options for you to explore—some you may not have even considered before. If addressing nagging concerns about your body or refreshing your appearance makes your list of 2012 To-Dos, it is well worth engaging a specialist in the field, especially if that specialist genuinely values the individual characteristics that make you unique. As one of Dr. Hunsicker’s patients put it, “You all made me feel like family. Each and every one of you made me feel comfortable from the first minute I stepped into your office. Thank you for giving me more confidence in the way I view myself!” ■
